PILES! PILES! PILES!

A Sure Cure Found at Last—No One Need Suffer!

A sure cure for blind, bleeding, itching and ulcerated piles has been discovered by Dr. William, (an Indian remedy,) called Dr. Williams' Indian Ointment. A single box has cured the worst chronic cases of twenty-five or thirty years standing. No one need suffer five minutes after applying this wonderful soothing medicine. Lotions, instruments and electrics do more harm than good. Williams' Ointment absorbs the tumors, allays the intense itching, (particularly at night after getting warm in bed,) acts as a poultice, gives instant and painless relief, and is prepared only for piles, itching of the private parts, and nothing else.

Read what the Hon. J. M. Coffinberry, of Cleveland, says about Dr. Williams' Pile Ointment: "I have used scores of pile cures, and it affords me pleasure to say that I have never found anything which gave me such immediate and permanent relief as Dr. Williams' Indian Ointment."

For sale by George T. Wood or mailed on receipt of price, $1.

By Dr. FRAZIER'S MAGIC OINTMENT. Cure as it by magic, pimples, black head or grubs, blotches and eruptions on the face, leaving the skin clear, healthy and beautiful. Also cures itch, barber's itch, salt rheum, tetter, ringworm, scald head, chapped hands, sore nipples, sore lips, old obstinate ulcers and sores, &c.

SKIN DISEASE.

F. Drake, Esq., Cleveland, O., suffered beyond all description from a skin disease which appeared on his hands, head and face, and nearly destroyed his eyes. The most careful doctoring failed to help him, and after all had failed he used Dr. Frazier's Magic Ointment and was cured by a few applications.

The first and positive cure for skin diseases ever discovered.

Dr. Frazier's Root Bitters.

Frazier's Root Bitters are not a dram-shop whisky beverage, but are strictly medicinal in every sense. They act strongly upon the liver and kidneys, keep the bowels open and regular, make the weak strong, heal the lungs, build up the nerves and cleanse the blood and system of every impurity.

For dizziness, rush of blood to the head tending to apoplexy, dyspepsia, fever and ague, dropsy, pimples and blotches, scrofulous humors and sores, tetter, ring worm, white swelling, erysipelas, sore eyes and for young men suffering from weakness or debility caused from imprudence, and to females in delicate health, Frazier's Root Bitters are especially recommended.

Dr. Frazier: "I have used two bottles of your Root Bitters for dyspepsia, dizziness, weakness and kidney disease, and they did me more good than the doctors and all the medicine I ever used. From the first dose I took I began to mend, and I am now in perfect health, and feel as well as I ever did. I consider your medicine one of the greatest blessings."

Myrtle's Devotion.

From "How Snickers Bite in Chicago," by Murat Halstead.

"Myrtle, dear?"
"Yes, George, what is it?" replied the girl, glancing slowly upward.

The radiant glory of a summer moon shone down upon the earth this June night, bathing in all its mellow splendor the leafy branches of the sturdy old oaks that had for centuries shaded the entrance to Castle McMurdy and laughed defiance to the fierce gales that every winter came howling down in all their cruel force and fury from the moorlands lying to the westward of the castle. On the edge of the broad demesne that stretched away to the south stood a large, brindled cow, and as the moonlight flicked with silvery lustre her starboard ribs she seemed to Myrtle a perfect picture of sweet content and almost holy calm.

"Is it not a beautiful night, dearest?" murmured the girl. "See how the moonbeams flutter down through the trees, making strange lights and shadows that flit among the shrubs and flowers in such a weird, ghost-like fashion. The dell is indeed clothed in loveliness to-night sweet-heart."

"Yes," said George W. Simpson, "this is the boss dell"—and then looking down into the pure, innocent face that was lifted to his, he took in his own broad, third-base palm the little hand that erst-while held up Myrtle's polonaise. As they stood there silently in the bosky glade George passed his arm silently but firmly around Myrtle's waist.

The noble girl did not shy.
"Do you love me, sweetheart?" he asked in accents that were tremulous with tremulousness.

Myrtle's head was drooped now, and the rosy blushes of Calumet-avenue innocence were chasing each other across her peachy cheeks.

George drew her more closely to him. If a mosquito had tried to pass between them then it would have been bad—for the mosquito.

"Can you doubt me, darling?" he whispered. "You surely must know that I love you with a wild, passionate whoa-Emma love that can never die. Do you not love me a little in return?"

For an instant the girl did not speak. George heard the whistling of the brindled cow's tail break in rudely upon the solemn stillness of the night, and ever and anon came the dull thud of the bull-frog as he jumped into a neighboring pond. Presently Myrtle placed her arms about his neck, and with a wistful, baby's-got-the-cramp look in her sweet face, she said to him, "I love you, George, with a deathless devotion that will eventually keep you broke." And with these fateful words she adjusted her rumped bang, and fearlessly led the way to an ice-cream lair.

That "Golden Rose."

The society reporter of the Critic (a friend of Mrs. Gen. Sherman, by the way), writes: "I am sorry to dispel the romance of the 'Golden Rose,' which had been so often printed during the past week, but I heard Mrs. Sherman say, in answer to some questions about it: 'No, I did not receive it, and it has never been given to any American lady. The only time I can now recall that it was ever presented to any one of the rank less than royalty was way back in the thirteenth or fourteenth century, when it was given to Sir Reginald Mohun, a simple Knight, to whose possessions the Pope added large domains in order that his revenues might equal the honor done him.'"

Julia Mobley drew a sharp knife, at Edgefield, S. C., and slashed an inoffensive stranger from shoulder to wrist. They had never met before, and not a word preceded the attack. The explanation is that Mobley's natural murderousness was increased by drink. The Edgefield Advertiser gently admonishes him that he "ought to be restrained," and that if he does that way again "justice will have to take its course."

MR. MONKEY'S BOY.

How he Created a Sensation.

Recently Mr. Monkey's boy took the family cat and rubbed phosphorus all over him. It was about nightfall when he completed the job and let the cat go. The cat got into a barrel and began to howl, and that attracted the attention of a bulldog, and he came along and danced about and barked and got terribly excited. It was a case of "dog in the light, cat in the shadow, dog full of fight, cat growing madder." Pretty soon the dog upset a barrel and went in after the cat. But it was a surprise party for him. The phosphorus glowed in the darkness and he beheld a cat on fire. He came out of that barrel and went off howling as though a policeman had stepped on him.

Then the cat went up on the roofs where other cats do congregate, and tried to chum with 'em. But it was no go. They fled from him as if he was a bootjack. He didn't understand it and gave chase, and as there were about forty cats on those roofs, and they were all scared, and fled from him howling dismally, the noise was something fearful, so the folks in the vicinity who heard it were scared and had cold sweats. The cats continued to tear about and yell so that it couldn't be endured. Mr. Monkey and others got up and went upon the roofs with clubs. And at first sight of a fiery cat it frightened them, and one old lady who saw it screamed and fell through a skylight and nearly killed a man sleeping beneath it, and made him think Mother Shipton was right. Finally, Mr. Monkey and his friends made a desperate charge on the fiery cat, and the poor cat took a flying leap to the street.

He hit on a policeman, saving his life, but nearly scaring the officer out of his wits, as he thought he was struck by lightning. The cat jumped to the ground, and an astronomer came along and took him for an aerolite and tried to pick him up. To his amazement the aerolite ran. Then he was scared too. Finally the cat got into a stable, and somebody thought it was a fire, and they called out the engines and got seven streams turned on him. He fought well, but they fixed him. And then investigation showed no fire but only a dead cat. And they told the stableman he was a cross-eyed fool to mistake a cat's eyes for a fire and so they left him. All the neighbors are talking of the mysterious fiery cat, and only young Monkey understands the mystery.—Boston Post.

A Feminine Face.

Special to the Cincinnati Commercial: Lawyer Belva A. Lockwood's tricycle stood at the President's front door for fifteen minutes this afternoon, while Belva filed her petition for appointment on the Utah Commission. It is not as yet announced whether she will be preferred to Phoebe Cousins, who has been on record as an applicant much longer. The contest between these two eminent agitators for this appointment promises to be a lively one. There was fire in Belva's gray eyes as she rode down the avenue, her gray hair streaming in the wind, on that wonderful tricycle which attracts so much attention.

Chester Doesn't Worry.

Special to the Cincinnati Commercial: President Arthur is back from his New York trip, which can not, on the whole, be said to have been a particularly successful one. He is not a man to worry much over anything, however, and, setting on the broad semi-circular porch overlooking the White House lawn, at the Saturday afternoon band concert, he seemed as happy as though there was no faction quarrels in New York, and no party split in Pennsylvania, or anything else to disturb the serenity of Presidential life.

NEW JERSEY has a rather peculiar way of disposing of strikers. A law was passed by the republican legislature at the instance of the wealthy protection barons which made an organized strike conspiracy within the meaning of the law, and punishable by heavy penalty. The laboring men would not submit to this, and with the fear that the republican party would lose the vote of the laboring classes the conspiracy law was repealed and the strikers supposed that they had immunity from arrest, but they have been somewhat surprised by the recent action of a court in Jersey City. The O'Donnell Brothers carry on the copperage business in Jersey City, and not long since their employes inaugurated a strike. The firm undertook to supply the places of the striking workmen, and the latter resorted to measures to keep the establishment closed until their demands were acceded to. Two of the strikers respectively named Wilkins and Gilmartin, joined with others in intimidating the new workmen, and were arrested on a charge of conspiracy. In passing upon the case the presiding magistrate, Justice Stilsing, held that mechanics and others have a right to agree only to work at prices fixed among themselves, but they no right to prevent or interfere with or intimidate others who may see fit to work for other wages, and thus injure trade and commerce. Notwithstanding the repeal of the statute which made the banding together of workmen to compel employers to advance wages conspiracy, the court held that the common law offense of conspiracy was not affected by the repeal, and that certain acts which could properly be construed into conspiracy were indictable offenses. The court said: "A conspiracy is an agreement or confederation of two or more persons to do an unlawful act or to accomplish an object by an unlawful means. The actual fact of conspiracy may be inferred from circumstances. Any joint action on a material point, or collocation of independent but co-operative acts by persons clearly associated with each other, is held to be sufficient. At common law the offense is complete by the mere association of two or more persons to break the law. Entertaining these views, and finding the testimony ample, the magistrate held the prisoners to await the action of the grand jury, and fixed their bail at $500 each.

The Kentucky court of appeals affirmed the decision of the Garrard circuit court in the case of William Austin, under sentence of death for the murder of his aunt, Miss Betsy Bland, in Garrard county last January. Miss Bland was eighty years old, and lived alone; and though the evidence against Austin was purely circumstantial it was very strong, and it was established beyond a doubt that he was the brutal murderer. The crime was committed with an ax, and blood stains were found on Austin's clothes and shoes, and he was also seen going to Miss Bland's House twenty minutes before she was found butchered. The principal ground on which Austin's counsel expected a reversal of the decision of the lower court was that the circuit judge orally instructed the jury after the argument by counsel and after the case had been given to the jury; that that the verdict was obtained by lot, and that a majority of the jury fixed the punishment—five being in favor of life imprisonment. As the time for Austin's execution has passed, Governor Blackburn will have to fix another day.

Union Service.

An invitation having been extended to the Southern Presbyterian Church to unite with their sister church of like faith and order in this city in their communion service on next Sabbath, the following response was made through the pastor of the Southern Church:

MAYSVILLE, KY., June 13, 1882.
Rev. S. B. Alderson: Dear Brother—On behalf of our Session and people we beg you to express to your Session and people our sincere thanks for the fraternal invitation conveyed through you, whereby, we hope to enjoy the privilege of communing together on next Sabbath as brethren in one common Lord. We desire to assure you and the people of your charge of our most cordial endorsement of the recent action of the two Assemblies in the matter of fraternal relations.

Adopting the language of our Assembly, "we do unfeigned rejoice and render thanksgiving to God in an event suited to take away the reproach of christian bodies holding the same standards of faith and order, and tending to bring peace to our borders."

Very truly and fraternally yours,
A. R. KENNEDY,
On behalf of Session.

In view of the above arrangement there will be no service at the opera house on next Sabbath, but a joint service at the Presbyterian Church both morning and night.

Brutal Assassination.

CHATTANOOGA, TENN., June 16th, 1882.—A cold-blooded murder was committed at Red Clay, Ga., eighty miles from this city. Silas Stevens and Lee Jackson had a difficulty, which was supposed to have been settled. This morning Stevens procured a pistol, went to Jackson's house, poked the pistol through the window and fired, killing him instantly. Stevens rushed into the house and fired the remaining shot into the body. The murderer was pursued by a posse.

Murderer Hanged.

PICKNEYVILLE, ILL., June 16th, 1882.—James Vaughn was hanged here this afternoon in the jail yard. The execution was private, only official reporters and a clergyman being admitted. Vaughn was despondent yesterday but rallied at night and rested well, eating a hearty breakfast this morning. He walked to the scaffold and died bravely. The crime for which he was executed was the murder of Wm. Watt's, marshal of Tamaroa.

The Lexington insane asylum is agitated by a small scandal. Mrs. Fox, formerly assistant matron, has filed an affidavit charging Miss Mary Thornton, the present matron, with taking and appropriating supplies and provisions to her own use which are furnished for the patients and employees. In short Mrs. Fox says the matron is in the habit of feeding her friends with asylum fodder. The board of commissioners will investigate.

SUBSCRIBERS who fail to receive the DAILY BULLETIN regularly will please leave word at this office.

If the army worms would come into Maysville and eat up the hogs it would be a favor the public would appreciate.

The third quarterly meeting for Germantown charge, Methodist Episcopal Church, will be held at Salem M. E. Church on Saturday and Sunday, June 24th and 25th. Rev. J. D. Wash, presiding elder, will conduct the services, assisted by the pastor, Rev. H. C. Northcott. All are invited.

Mr. F. S. ANDREWS, proprietor of the American House, at West Jefferson, Ohio, had his hotel destroyed by fire on Thursday night. Many of our citizens will remember Mr. Andrews as a clerk at one time for Mullins & Hunt. He married a sister of Mrs. M. C. Russell, of this city.

The rarest coin of the United States is the double eagle of 1849, of which there is but one in existence, belonging to the cabinet of the U. S. mint. The next in rarity is the half eagle of 1815. It is said that the King of Sweden, to complete his collection of United States coins, paid $2,000 for a specimen. Only five of these half eagles are in existence. The silver dollar of 1804 is rare and valuable. Only ten pieces of the kind are to be found.

MESSRS. THOMAS BRANCH & CO., bankers and commission merchants, of Richmond, Va., have an advertisement elsewhere, calling attention to that city as a grain market. This firm, which is an entirely responsible one, has four large mills with a capacity of 15,000 to 20,000 bushels of wheat daily. And also an elevator on the line of the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad with a capacity of 400,000 bushels, and are enabled to handle grain as cheaply as at Baltimore or New York.

The mills will be ready for the new season by the first of July, when the firm will be pleased to have a trial shipment from the farmers and others of this county. The charges will be made moderate and all business will have prompt attention.

Postoffice officials say that the surplus of receipts over expenditures for the past year will foot up in the vicinity of a million dollars. There is a large element in congress who argue that the department has no right to be self-sustaining, or, at least be made a source of revenue to the government. In anticipation of the fact that the year's operations will disclose a margin of receipts over expenditures a number of bills are pending looking to a reduction of the cost of postage to the public. Among these are one or two to reduce letter postage to two cents, to abolish postage on second-class matter, and to introduce the secret-message card, which would take the place of short letters and cost one cent. The postmaster general is understood to be favorable to some kind of a reduction, but he is opposed by many of the other officials of the department. As congressmen are getting in a hurry to go home, it is not at all certain that anything will be done this session.

The winners in the races at Jackson, Mich., were Annie W., H. M. Strong, Lucy and Glendower. At Bradford, Pa.—A. Goldsmith and Barret. At Tiffin, O.—Lady Servey, Nettie and Louise. At Beacon Park, Boston—Jack Sailor and Clemmie G. At Coney Island—Heel and Tow, Hiawassa, Barret, Girofle and Bernandine. At Crawfordsville, Ind.—Roscoe, Henry, Limber Jake and Blanton.

The Lion and the Rabbit.

On one occasion a lion, who was out to air his teeth and lord it over the small fry, encountered a rabbit in the forest. The rabbit was about to slink away without a word, the lion, desirous of impressing on the whole rabbit tribe his great importance, called up the little victim and began:

"Tell me what you have to live for? You cannot roar; you cannot fight; almost every animal in the forest can make you fly in alarm. It seems to me that if I belonged to such small potatoes I would soon be dead."

"If nature had made us all lions," humbly replied the rabbit, "there would be nothing for us to prey upon and hardly room enough for all to move about, I had rather be a rabbit than nothing at all."

"There may be philosophy in that," continued the lion, "but when I roar men tremble; when I spring my victim falls. I knock down and drag out. I boss the job; I am chairman of the convention, as it were. If I were such a bob-tailed, insignificant creature as you are, I would hide my head. Why, I can knock you over with a swing of my tail."

He whisked around to back up his assertion, and lo! it caught in a crevice in the rocks and he was fast. The harder he pulled the worse was his fix, and his roars of rage guided some bushmen to the spot, and they quickly despatched him.

"As for me, said the rabbit, as he hopped away, "I neither roar nor lash and while the great lion lies dead I never felt better in my life."

Dispute not the bob-tail trifles of life. A bee is not as big as a butterfly but he'll upset a Sunday school picnic ten times as quick.

A Kansas liquor seller, who was sentenced for violation of the prohibition laws to a fine of $100 and costs and thirty days' imprisonment, shot himself shortly after his release from jail. The opponents of the liquor laws say that the man was driven to commit suicide by persecution, and they call him "the seventh victim whom the temperance crew have upon their conscience." The prohibitionists on the other hand, say that the man's suicide is to be attributed "to mental derangement arising from excessive consumption of alcohol." There is controversy over the case.

Just as a girl was about to drown herself at Athens, Ala., a man caught her. She struggled, but he held her fast. "I'll give you ten minutes to think it over," he said "and if you then want to die I'll let you do it." When the time was up he released her, and she quietly went home.

Inherited Deformities.

In an article in Nature on "Inheritance" Mr. Darwin cites a curious case where even physical injuries in a parent were transmitted to the children for two generations. Mr. Darwin says:

"Mr. Bishop has given me a case of inheritance of a peculiarity which arose, as it appears, from an injury, accompanied by a diseased state of the part. This latter fact seems to be an important element in all such cases. A gentleman, when a boy, had the skin of both thumbs badly cracked from exposure to cold, combined with some skin disease. His thumbs swelled greatly, and remained in this state for a long time. When they healed they were misshapen, and the nails ever afterward were singularly narrow, short, and thick. This gentleman had four children, of whom the eldest, Sarah, had both her thumbs and nails like her father's; the third child, also a daughter, had one thumb similarly deformed. The two other children, a boy and a girl, were normal. The daughter, Sarah, had four children, of whom the eldest and third, both daughters, had their two thumbs deformed; the other two children, a boy and a girl, were normal. The great-grandchildren of this gentleman were all normal. Mr. Bishop believes that the old gentleman was correct in attributing the state of his thumbs to cold, aided by skin disease, as he positively asserted that his thumbs were not originally misshapen, and there was no record of any previously inherited tendency of the kind in his family. He had six brothers and sisters, who lived to have families, and some of them very large families, and in none was there any trace of deformity in their thumbs."

BATCHELDER'S

Ventilated Egg Case.

Patented February 15, 1881.

Indispensable to Merchants Shippers And Producers.

THE CHEAPEST AND THE BEST.

THE ONLY PRACTICAL CASE.

The outside frame of this carrier contains five trays, held in place by fasteners at end of case, as seen in cut. These Trays are constructed in reversible halves. The above cut shows one whole tray filled ready to be placed in case, each egg resting in its cardboard socket in such a manner as to be readily counted, candled, or transferred from tray to tray, or case to case without rehandling.

For cold storage this case will store 60 dozen with racks made to receive the half trays, hence this is the cheapest storage case manufactured, saving largely in space.

The manner of holding the eggs on end prevents oscillation, adding, or breakage, and adds greatly to their freshness when carried long in storage. Size of 30 dozen No. 1 cases 25x12x14, weighs 20 pounds.

PRICES IN CHICAGO.

Shipper's No. 1, 30 doz. Case with Fillers complete. 65 Cents.

Farmer's No. 1, 18 doz. Case with Fillers complete. 55 Cents.

15 per cent. discount on lots of 100 cases.

Batchelder's Egg Tester, testing 6 doz. at once, saves to buyers many times its cost each season. Price $3.00.

By special arrangements made by the manufacturers of this case most Railroads will receive them as fourth class freight.

The 18 dozen case made especially for Farmers' use, sent to any address by express, with out nailing, with full directions for setting up, on receipt of 50 cents. Every Farmer and consumer should have one of these cases, it will save its cost every month. Agents wanted in every county. Address,
